

Fortum Power Plant

Customer advantages were gained by developing swiftly and safely installable, functional entities out of well-designed and mutually compatible systems.

Partneři

- Customer company:
Andritz

Ruukki delivered a steel frame and shell structures, with installations included, for Fortum's joint electric and thermal power plant in the city of Pärnu, Estonia.

In addition, the solution decreased the amount of workforce needed at the construction site, reduced risks related to construction and improved occupational safety.

Ruukki's solution provided the customer company Andritz with a construction process that proved accurately and competitively more time-efficient.

Customer advantages were gained by developing swiftly and safely installable, functional entities out of well-designed and mutually compatible systems.

