Amica's high-bay warehouse in Wronki, Poland, is 47 m high, making it the highest building of this type in Poland and the tallest in Europe in the white goods sector. This impressive building was made in cooperation with Ruukki Polska, which delivered sandwich panels for its walls.

Ruukki delivered at short notice 15,000 m² of sandwich panels in two types, with PIR and mineral wool cores, which were installed at the same façade. All the panels were manufactured at Ruukki's plant in Oborniki.
