

Rajpol

With sandwich panels high degree of thermal insulation and airtightness, lightweight cladding solutions made of sandwich panels with a polyurethane core offer strong benefits for end users, such as considerable savings on heating costs.

Related products

- > Sandwich panels for external walls

Rajpol Sp. z o.o. is one of the biggest and most modern fruit producers' organizations in Poland. The company has currently 53 shareholders, with a total production area over 500 hectares. Advanced sorting and packing lines, cold storage and logistics facilities ensure smooth fruit production and distribution.

Ruukki delivered SP2B E-PIR and SP2E E-PIR sandwich panels with a polyurethane core. They were used for the construction of sorting and storage halls. A total quantity of delivered sandwich panels was about 35 000 m². Panels were manufactured in Ruukki's plant in Oborniki Wlkp., Poland.

With their high degree of thermal insulation and airtightness, lightweight cladding solutions made of sandwich panels with a polyurethane core offer strong benefits for end users, such as considerable savings on heating costs.

